

COLLISION

OF TRACTION CARS AT LIMA

Kills Three and Injures Over a Score

A Misunderstanding of Orders Blamed For the Accident—Both Cars in Kindling Wood—Infirmary as a Hospital.

Piqua, O., Aug. 19.—Three men were killed, at least seven injured so seriously that their death is expected momentarily and a score, including passengers and members of the train crews, were hurt in a head-on collision of limited cars on the Western Ohio Traction company's line, nine miles north of Piqua, this evening.

The dead are: William Bailey, Piqua, O.; William McQuillen, Lockington, O.; James Kohl, Detroit, Mich., (partial identification); C. W. Hummelhouser, Detroit; Geo. Robinson, Sidney, O.

The fatally injured are: L. E. Hagenrod, Lockington, O., head cut and internally injured; John Mayer, Dayton, O., head, hips and legs injured, may recover; Charles McClure, Sidney, O., internally injured; Charles Hale, motorman, internally injured; George A. Hax, Baltimore, O., crushed; Clarence Long, Dayton, O., head crushed.

The other injured, none of whom escaped without broken bones, are: George Blakely, Sidney, O.; Charles P. Lock, Tippicanoe City, O., compound fracture of arm; Minnie Eckert, Sidney, O., slight fracture; Mrs. Eckert, Sidney, O., slight fracture; Fred G. Grunman, Philadelphia, Pa., head and face cut; Cora Anderson, Piqua, O., head and face cut; H. L. Emert, Dayton, O., head and face cut; Mary Emert, Dayton, O., slight fracture; Rollin S. Rex, Dayton, O., head and face cut; Toke Moxley, Lima, O., hip broken, head cut; E. E. Baskerville, Sidney, O., scalp wounds, collarbone broken; Nathan Cox, Dayton, O., slight fracture; C. B. Hart, West Point, Ind., head and face cut; Andrew Dubuse, Troy, O., face and head cut; C. W. Smith, Piqua, O., slight fracture; Charles Weidner, Piqua, O.; Mrs. Charles Weidner, Piqua, O.; R. L. Rex, Dayton, O. Last three scalp wounds.

The cars met opposite the Shelby county infirmary.

The northbound car out of Piqua was speeding to reach a switch in time to pass the southbound car from Sidney, due here at 6:18 o'clock but late. A misunderstanding of meeting orders, due to the fact that a seldom used country switch was indicated as the meeting point because of the southbound car being overdue, is blamed for the collision.

Both cars were made into kindling wood while passengers were hurled fifty feet in some instances. Others were pinned in the wreckage and only one man of the thirty aboard the two cars, escaped unhurt. Not one of the injured escaped without a broken bone, while many of those who are not fatally injured will be maimed for life.

P. F. Sarver, a Sidney business man, alone escaped injury. He assisted farmers and employees of the county infirmary to carry the injured to that institution, which soon was converted into a temporary hospital. Physicians were hurried to the scene from Piqua and from Sidney in automobiles, to care for the wounded and ambulances carried the dead into this city.

The wife of George Hax, of Baltimore, O., was awaiting her husband in this city, by appointment, and is prostrated. From the temporary hospital, she received a message that Mr. Hax was dying.

The traction station here has been besieged by a great crowd all evening, awaiting information as to relatives they imagined might be on one of the cars.

George Robinson, of Sidney, of the People's Savings and Loan company, is believed to be dying of his injuries.

ALLIANCE NEWS

Alliance, Aug. 10.—The Alliance board of education met Monday evening in adjourned session with President C. Y. Kay and Members Miller, Transue, Spring and Manchester present. On motion of Mr. Spring a number of bills presented were laid over until the next regular meeting.

Architect W. S. Epperson, of Canton, presented a set of plans for making the changes ordered at the seven school buildings by the state building inspector.

On motion President Kay was instructed to go to Columbus Wednesday to confer with the state officials regarding the plans and endeavor, if possible, to get some concessions as to the changes ordered.

It was the opinion of the members that a bond issue should be made to cover the cost of the changes which will approximate $6000. The members realized the necessity of getting at the work promptly as the schools are to open Sept. 7. It was decided that another meeting should be held Thursday evening.

Supt. Morris brought up the subject of teaching physical culture in the schools and having a special teacher.

Heretofore the regular teachers have given instructions. The subject was left open until next meeting. Several other subjects were referred to the building committee.

PETITION DRAFTED FOR REHEARING IN STANDARD OIL CASE

Chicago, Aug. 10.—District Attorney Sims forwarded a copy of his draft of a petition for a rehearing of the Standard Oil company appeal to Attorney General Bonaparte today after the finishing touches on it had been completed and copies made by stenographers. Not until the petition has received the approval of the attorney general, will it be filed or made public.

It is generally believed that among the points raised in the petition are: That the appellate judges misapprehended the record of evidence bearing upon the question of intent and criminal knowledge, failed to recognize certain rulings of Judge Landis and misunderstood and misstated Judge Landis' declaration in regard to the part played in the alleged law violations of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, by the parent corporation, the Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

A number of flaws of this nature are said to have been found by the district attorney in the higher court's opinion.

REPUBLICANS ALARMED; $25,000 TO BE EXPENDED TO LINE UP LABOR VOTE

Indianapolis, Aug. 10.—George W. Cromer, former congressman from the Eighth district, has been appointed at the head of the new bureau and board by the Republican state central committee. The new department is called the labor bureau. The work of Mr. Cromer will be confined to determining the attitude of organized labor toward the state and national candidates, sending literature to labor organizations and getting permanent members in line for the tickets.

It is said that $25,000 has been set aside for the work of the labor bureau.

DEATH IN PENNY PRIZE PACKAGE OF CANDY

New York, Aug. 10.—Peter Boyle, six years old, of Brooklyn, died today from the effects of poison contained in candy he had purchased. The little fellow yesterday afternoon bought a "prize package" of candy for a cent. He ate the contents and a few hours afterwards was seized with cramps. He was treated by a physician, but gradually became worse, and this afternoon was taken to the hospital for an operation. He died as he was being carried into the hospital. This is the second case of the kind reported to the Brooklyn police within a month.

CONFERENCE

Of All Christian Endeavor Societies in Canton Held Last Night.

A general conference of all the Christian Endeavor societies in Canton was held last evening in the auditorium of the Trinity Reformed church, conducted by Mrs. Florence Price Bisset, of Dayton. Mrs. Bisset is superintendent of the Missionary Department of the Ohio Christian Endeavor Union and at the present time is travelling through the state delivering short addresses to conferences of workers, and answering questions relating to the work. The idea of the trip is to infuse into the societies throughout the state the spirit which all the delegates receive at the district convention.

The meeting last evening was opened with a short song service. Half of the societies in the city were represented; six out of twelve. Mrs. Bisset began with a short address on the "Opportunities of Christian Endeavor."

After the first part of the talk questions were handed around printed on slips of paper. These were for the audience to ask. Mrs. Bisset answered them. They related to the aim of the work and the result of missionary work. Especially they covered the organization and carrying on of the missionary work in the Christian Endeavor societies and the duties of the missionary committee of each.

After a time the discussion turned to the organization of a Missionary Study club in Canton. There has been a club of this kind among the Canton societies for the last two years, but there has been no indication that the idea would be carried further. It was found that the lack of a leader was the cause of the inability to start one. A remedy for this was found by having a leader for the whole county who should travel from place to place throughout the county conducting the clubs at all points. A leader from Alliance could easily be secured for this purpose. The expense would be paid by the county union.

Counteracting Advance in Freight Rates.

Indianapolis, Aug. 10.—The efforts of the railroad companies to secure advanced freight rates by petitions from merchants secured by railroad employees is already being counteracted by large shippers who are getting up counter petitions to be sent to the interstate commerce commission.

MARKETS HERE

Are Among the Cheapest in the State at the Present Time

SUGAR TAKES A DROP

It is a fact, and one which few Cantonians realize, that the markets of Canton are among the cheapest in the state and cheaper even than the Cleveland markets. This summer has been the first time that this has been the case but it is true at the present time. The change is due to the fact that Canton commission merchants, at least some of them, buy directly from the shippers instead of getting their supply through the Cleveland and Pittsburgh commission houses, as has been the custom in former years. This of course relates in general to fruit, dried fruit and canned goods which come from other parts of the country.

Minnesota flour has risen steadily all week and there is no indication that it has yet stopped going up. This is due to the scarcity of No. 1 hard wheat in the northwest. The outlook for the coming crop is so dubious that the buyers hardly know what to expect, and there is none too much on hand at the present time. The wheat in the central states is much more settled and there is no change in the flour market of the softer wheats in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa.

The continued dry and hot spell along the Pacific coast has sent the price of California canned and dried goods into the clouds. There is no telling when Jupiter Pluvius will open up on the golden west, but every day he holds off the rain, sends the western markets higher. Lemons are up in the air as oranges. It is near the end of the orange season however, which may better account for the rise in that article. In spite of the rise in lemons they are lower than they were last year.

Potatoes have retailed for forty cents a peck for the last ten days but it is expected that they will drop to bed rock inside of a week, on account of the recent rains. No estimate can be made of the good the rains have done the farmers; and the potatoes have received their share of the benefit. Wholesale potatoes now sell at three dollars and seventy-five cents a barrel, each barrel of eleven pecks; whereas formerly the price ranged three dollars to three dollars and a half.

Sugar has dropped ten points during the last week. This will give the retail refined market a perceptible fall. The hot weather on the coast which is keeping the fruit dealers guessing is just the thing for the lima beans which have taken a fall on that account.

This is the season for the home grown fruits. It is the end of the season for Georgia peaches which have held the market up to the present time. These will soon quit coming and the dealers will have to look nearer home. The northern Ohio and Michigan peaches will be the next in line.

The late season for melons has had a tendency to keep the price down. They were late in coming but are now arriving in large quantities. It is now the end of the cantaloupe season but there are plenty on hand to keep the price down where it ought to be. The season for small cantaloupes is at an end. Those now on the market are the large variety, called the tip-top cantaloupes. The price averages about the same as in former years.

Sweet potatoes are coming slower than usual this year. A large supply is expected in about a week. The rains will probably bring them fast. Apples are more scarce this year than usual.

The season is also starting for home grown plums as well as peaches. The outlook for the fruit crop this year is especially bright. Peaches and plums are expected to be more plentiful than ever by some of the merchants, and there is no reason why they should not be.

There is little demand for garden truck this time of year. Every one has about all they want in their own garden, and the articles at the retail stores are therefore cheap. There is nothing radical doing in the butter and eggs field. They are the same as usual at this time of year. The usual scarcity of butter in a week or two, however, is expected. Although the market is well supplied at the present time the annual drop is expected to take place in a short time.

KIDNAPPED LAD

Rejoins His Brothers After an Absence of 29 Years.

Medina, Aug. 10.—"I have greatly enjoyed the novel experience of getting acquainted with my own brothers," said Bert Cole, 33, Camden, N. Y., who was stolen away when four years old, by a pair which wished to rear him as their own son.

He has just met his brothers, George, Eugene and William, of Medina, for the first time since he was kidnapped.

"When my mother died," said Cole, "I was a lad of three. My father put me in a family of neighbors, until he could arrange a permanent home for me. This family became deeply attached to me, and tried in every way to keep me from my brothers, and to make me believe I was their son."

"I can faintly remember my brothers, but cannot remember of ever hearing them called Cole, my foster parents doing everything to keep my real name from me."

"One night my foster parents, without warning, took me to Cleveland, I am told, and for over 20 years I was lost to my family. My father, broken-hearted over my disappearance, died of worry."

"I was taken to Camden, N. Y., in 1892 I went to Cleveland to work for a relative of my foster mother. I again began to think about my brothers with whom I had played in babyhood. A friend told me that my real surname, she thought, was Mills. One day I came to Medina and asked for George, Eugene and Will Mills. No one had ever heard of such a family. I went back discouraged and made no further effort to find who I was."

"I soon returned to Camden and married. Imagine my surprise, when, a short time ago, I received letters from my long lost Medina brothers, revealing the secret of my life. Tom Hill, of Medina, a friend of my Cleveland employer, had induced the latter to tell him where I was. Hill told my brothers and they at once wrote me."

"My foster parents were kind, but none others are like one's own folks."

FRUIT CROP

Nothing to Boast of Is the Observation of C. W. Faust.

The fruit crop in northern Ohio will not be anything to boast of for the season of 1908. Celery is the only thing which will yield anywhere near a full crop. Everything else will range from mediocre to bad. According to C. W. Faust, an authority on fruit in this part of the country, the early spring was too dry and too cold to insure anything like the normal amount of fruit. The fruit in general was stunted in the bud. That which has lived, however, has had a reasonable chance of existence, in the leniency of the summer. Peppers and egg plants are an exception to this however, for the cool nights of part of the summer have severely injured these.

Although Mr. Faust does not expect much more than twenty-five per cent of the plum crop to come out well, there will be enough to supply all demands. The same applies to peaches of which there will be but half a crop. Apples are bad from start to finish. There will be but half a crop of both fall and winter apples. Peas will make good to about the extent of one-third of a crop.

Up to the present time potatoes have been in a bad way, but rains may bring them out better than was at first thought. At the present time only one-third of a crop is expected. Some of the farmers in the vicinity of Canton are despairing of any crop at all. The crop of beans is not all that could be expected. There will be some but not many; perhaps not enough to supply the usual demand. There will be a fair supply of peppers and egg plant.

Cauliflower is one of the few things which will nearly come up to expectations, but unfortunately, little was expected of it. There will also be a fair crop of melons. Mr. Faust expects five per cent of the crop to make good.

Ingalls to Speak in Indianapolis. Indianapolis, Ind. Aug. 10.—Gilbert H. Hendren, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Democratic state committee, received a letter from M. E. Ingalls today, of Cincinnati, president of the Big Four railroad, in which Mr. Ingalls accepts an invitation to make a Democratic speech in this city early in October.

TEXT BOOK

TO BE ISSUED BY THE DEMOCRATS

Will be Boiled Down Into Three Hundred Pages

Failure of Roosevelt Administration and How Prices Have Mounted Under Trust Control Will be Treated on.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 10.—The Democratic campaign text book will not deal as mentally with Roosevelt as has the Democratic candidate so far. The committee named to edit that publication, John E. Lamb of Indiana, Joseph Daniels of North Carolina, and Richard L. Metcalf, editor of the Commonwealth, meets here tomorrow and Mr. Metcalf, with some suggestions from Bryan, has a mass of matter ready for the committee to pass upon.

One of the things most emphasized will be the failure of the Roosevelt administration to get what it went after and made the most noise about. A compilation of extracts from Roosevelt's message will be made to show precisely what reforms he has urged and in parallel columns will be shown what congress did to them. It is also proposed, in addition to the usual matter relating to the platform, speeches of acceptance and the like, to devote separate chapters to showing how prices have mounted under trust controlled markets, the selling of goods cheaper abroad than at home because of tariff protected monopoly of guaranteed bank deposits.

Taft's record on labor injunctions and the various other topics of vital interest will be dealt with.

Members of the committee say that their chief task will be to boil down into the 300 pages they propose limiting the book to, all the material the Republicans have given them to work on. This will be the committee's first meeting and it will possibly last all day. Another important meeting slated for tomorrow is the consultation by Bryan and Chairman Mack and the members of the national executive committee, who are coming to the notification, and desire to have a talk with Bryan upon the general aspect and the conduct of the campaign. Chairman Clayton of the notification committee, held two conferences today with Bryan. He was a guest over night at Fairview. Clayton says his notification speech will be a model for brevity, being only about seven hundred words in length. He will accompany it by presenting Mr. Bryan with a formal letter of notification about 350 words long.

Mr. Bryan stated that his tariff speech to be delivered at Des Moines on August 21, has been completed and sent to the printer. He has started the preparation of his speech on the trust question which will be given at Indianapolis on the occasion of Kern's vice presidential notification, August 25.

Asked for his views on the result of the primary elections held recently in some of the western states Mr. Bryan said:

"No matter what the results of the primaries are, if the people secure what they want—that is the best we can hope for."

Bryan also paid this compliment to Adlai Stevenson: "While I take no part in the contests, between Democrats before conventions or primaries, I am sure I will be pardoned in this case if I say that while we had a number of worthy Democrats aspiring to the governorship in Illinois, no one among them was superior in his qualifications to Mr. Stevenson. I believe he will make a very strong candidate and will greatly aid the national ticket."

The advance guard of visitors for Notification Day are arriving and the citizens have begun decorating blocks and houses. One noticeable is on the Burr block, owned by a lawyer and lifelong Republican. He is for Bryan this year and the Democratic candidates' pictures fill every nook and cranny of the side and front of the block.

Henry George, Jr., was closeted with Bryan for an hour this afternoon. He has been filling Chautauqua dates in Nebraska and Kansas for the last six weeks, and says there is a strong trend towards Bryan, many Republicans openly stating their intention to vote for him.

Five hundred visitors to the Methodist Chautauqua called on Mr. Bryan this afternoon. He stopped work on writing a speech to make one to them, which he said was his first and only Chautauqua speech this year. His remarks were largely devoted to lauding the Chautauqua as an institution.

REQUISITION PAPERS OBTAINED FOR GEO. W. DAWSON

Detective Joe Ryan will leave for Columbus today where he will go to get requisition papers from Governor Harris for the bringing back of George W. Dawson, who was arrested in Buffalo last week, charged by Canton parties with embezzlement. From Columbus Ryan will go to Albany to see Governor Hughes and then he expects to go to Buffalo, returning to Canton with his man.

Dawson is charged with embezzling $100 from Acquila Adams of this city, who claims that while Dawson was a resident here and was night superintendent of the United States Steel company here. It is charged that he obtained money as president and treasurer of a company that was being organized to engage in mining operations in the west. After getting the money it is claimed by Adams, he shipped his household belongings to Buffalo. A warrant for his arrest was sworn August 1, and last week the local police authorities received word that he had been arrested in Buffalo.
